WILL THERE BE A NEW CABINET?

This is the question in everybody's mouth. We suppose there will be a new one, but if there is we hope it will be either all of the present one, or else none of them. It seems to us to be impolitic to make any change at present, but give those now in the chance to show themselves, up to the time of calling a new Legislature. They have commenced, and why not let them carry out their plans, and let us see what kind of stuff they are made of.

A case from Hamakua has been brought to the notice of the Sheriff, where a man was said to have fallen off his horse and died, while in the hands of the police of that district. From what we learn, there is cause for suspicion that he died from injuries received at the hands of one of the horses on the Kukuhiva plantation the night before. This is only report, and the name is being investigated by the Sheriff there. The coroner's jury, we hear, brought in a verdict "of death at the hands of some one unknown." We shall await further developments in that case.

About the Volcano.

On Friday last the Volcano reflection was most brilliant, as seen from town, and from a visitor who was there that evening, we learn that the Old Hauhauaman was intensely active all that night, and that several large streams of lava flowed from the old lake and reached almost to the eastern bank, underneath the cliff on which the Volcano House stands. Now is a good time to visit it, as it is very active all the time, and every once in a while puts on an extra spark.

We see the Kinan advertises that she will not take any freight for Lanaihoeoe. No more six hour stops there.

A wedding anniversary (the first) brought a large number of the friends together at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Terry, and a most delightful season was spent thereby all. The yearling's were again married by the Rev. Mr. Westervelt, and amid much fun and laughter they again promised to stick to one another through thick and thin. We wish them many more returns of the happy day.

During the past week our Hilo weather has just simply been perfect. Bright sunny days and cool refreshing nights. We claim that taking the months around, Hilo has the most delightful climate, of any place on these Islands, where almost any place is perfect.

Quite a large lot of opium was captured by friend Stupplebeen during the last week at Papakolea. The Chinaman loaned the Government $250 taking no note therfor.

NEWS FROM KOHALA.

An Accident—Raining all the Time—Society Event.

Arrival of the Alameda.

Quite a serious accident occurred at Kohala Plantation on Tuesday, January 27, whereby a Japanese had a leg broken. It is the practice for one man to ride on the brake of each bullock wagon, and in the above case the wagon was upset. The great wonder is that there are so few casualties of the same nature, and in the case mentioned that the man escaped death.

Saturday evening, the 7th inst., Messdames Wight and Smithies gave a very enjoyable dancing party. The house was very nicely trimmed with flowers and ferns; music good, and everybody agreed that they had a good time. Supper was served at 12, when the dancers began to wend their way homeward, and as some of them lived at quite a long distance, and had to face a tearing wind, accompanied with rain, it was 4 o'clock ere they reached their homes. Owing to the rain during the early part of the evening, quite a number were debarked from going, much to their loss. There were about thirty present; only about half the number that would have gone under more favorable circumstances.

Dame Nature seems to be in the "melting" mood. There were twenty-five rainy days during last month, and so far in this month it has rained all the time, night and day. We hope the old lady will exhaust her stock of tears soon, for we can almost see the moss growing on our hair. This is a very damp district even in dry times, so what must it be during a long rainy period! In spite of all the rain, our mill owners are rushing in the cane, through what is gleaned from foreign papers, they are more scared than hurt in regard to the McKinley bill.

Mr. Gillespie has severed his connection, as bookkeeper, with the Hawaiian Commercial Company. He departs soon for the Colonies. Mr. James Bryant, brother to Howard and Gerald Bryant, a quite recent importation from "Maurie" England, succeeds to the position. While we are glad to extend the hand of welcome to Mr. Bryant, still we are sorry to lose Mr. Gillespie. We wish him a bon voyage and all manner of success in his new field of operations.

FROM THE SOUTH SEAS.

Change of the New Zealand Ministry—Samoa.

By the S. S. Alameda dates from Auckland to the 26th of January have been received:

A change has taken place in the New Zealand government. The Atkinson ministry having been unexpectedly defeated in the organization of the newly-elected legislature, by a vote of 36 opposition to 29, they resigned on the 24th, and on the 26th the following new ministry was announced:

Mr. Ballance, Premier and Leader in the House.

Mr. Buckley, Attorney-General, John McKenna, Agriculture and Lands.

Mr. Seddon, Mines and Public Works.

W. P. Reeves, Education and Justice.

Mr. Ward, no portfolio.

The new government has had fourteen years experience in public life and has held portfolios in three or four ministries. The other members are new men. According to the local papers the new government differs very little in policies from the preceding, and the party seems to have come into power simply because the people desired a change. The Atkinson administration retired leaving a balance of $280,000 in the colonial treasury—the largest surplus derived from customs receipts that any minister has ever been able to hand over to its successors in that colony.

"Pinkeye" has broken out in Sydney, and many horses have become affected with the disease and died. At least date the City Tramways Co. had 130 horses laid up with it.

The exports from New Zealand are now reported to £100,000 or $100,000 annually. Population 800,000. The imports for 1890 were £5,300,000.

Mr. John White, the well-known Maori scholar and author of "The Ancient History of the Maoris," died suddenly January 12 in Auckland.

Via Sydney the cable reports that Parry and O'Brien will visit America in February, and Dillon will succeed to the leadership of the Irish party in Parliament.

The new fleet of Australian cruisers will leave England in March for Australia. After rendezvousing at King George's Sound, they will proceed to their various stations.

FROM SAMOA.

The American and British residents observed the old custom of making New Year's calls. They started out in a body, and called upon the Chief Justice, the different consulates, and other officers and residents of note.

Upon the return of the German flagship Leipzig to the harbor from Pago Pago, a large ball was given in honor of the Admiral.

On December 30th Tamasee paid his first visit to Apia since the war. He was accompanied by seventy or eighty followers. His object in making the visit was to consult Dr. Funk in regard to his physical condition, having been sailing for some time. The King was asked to give the key of the government house at Malinuu to accommodate Tamasee. This he refused to do, stating there were plenty native houses in the locality capable of accommodating Tamasee if he intended remaining. On the same night representatives of the three powers held a consultation, and agreed that it would be unwise for Tamasee and his large following to remain in Apia, and it is thought they requested him to go. Tamasee went the same evening on his way to Savaii.

Chief Justice Cederkrantz arrived at Samoa December 30th. Much anxiety was felt before his arrival. Strangers unacquainted with the peculiar circumstances could form no idea of the delicate position of affairs in Samoa—trembling in the balance between peace and insurrection—which the arrival of the Chief Justice could set aright. The King expressed great pleasure at his arrival.

A Samoan while coasting in his canoe was driven by wind along the coast of the Muliapane plantation. He was taken in by a black boy whom he knew. When the black boy surrounded the Samoan to kill him, the black friend objected, but gave in when he found his own life in jeopardy. The Samoan was then killed and eaten, the cannibals afterwards buried the head and bones in a taro patch.—(Samoa Times.)

Testimonial to Captain Morse.

The outgoing mail steamer Alameda arrived here from Sydney en route for San Francisco at 2:30 p. m. yesterday afternoon after a pleasant and fast trip across. Prior to the vessel's departure from Sydney, her popular commander, Captain H. G. Morse, was entertained by a large number of his friends at a banquet, when in the midst of a very representative gathering, some ladies who had experienced the genial skipper's courtesy on shipboard, presented him with a hassock beautifully worked in a design emblematic of the flags of all nations. After a suitable acknowledgment by Captain Morse, a very pleasant evening was spent in mirth and melody.—(Advertiser Jan. 26th.)

To those who need a pleasant tonic for any kind of debility, we can recommend Clements' as the best. For sale by Hollister & Co.
